Philip Evans Escapes From Meriden Reformatory—Republican Rally This Evening—Sudden Death of John Mercer.

Word has been received here of the escape of Philip Evans from the State Reformatory at Meriden Tuesday. Evans, alias Leclaire, with his brother, William, was sentenced to the reformatory by Justice Benjamin R. Briggs. The two brothers, who are 1 and 19 years of age formerly lived in Plainfield with their parents and on two occasions they broke into the caboose of a freight train left, standing on the siding here. The first break was BREED THEATRE.

The Pretenders, a Five-Part Metro Wonderplay, With Emmy Wehlen in Seturday.

The feature screen production at the Breed theatre for today and Saturday is The Pretenders, a five-part Metro wonderplay, with Emmy Wehlen in the leading role. This is the first appearance of this dainty little Viennese star on the Metro program. Channing Pollock and Rennold Wolf, the well known authors and playwrights, have provided the vehicle for her, and George D, Baker, one of the ablest of American directors, has charge of the production.

The Pretenders contrasts the simple homespun life of the Pettingilis in their middle western home hefore they became wealthy with their superby became wealthy with their superby of the western home hefore they became wealthy with their superby of the production.

Rien Pettingill and her mother years for association with members of the nobility. They talk about it so much that poor old Slias Pettingill becomes discouraged. He goes out, picks up the first man he meets and makes a boon companion of him. The stranger happens to be a good looking young chauffsur. Slias brings him home and in the morning when Maria Pettingill demands to know where he has been all night, and who the stranger is, Slias introduces him associant meets and are the substance of the strength of having a count as their guest. At a tea dansant, they meet the first man who calls himself the Bari of Bradwood, and his brother the heir. He does not know that both have died and that he himself has succeeded to the title.

The contest of both for the hand of Helen, with whom both are in love, and the attempt of each to unmask the other, with the ultimate triumph of the true earl, form a photodrama every moment of which is crowded with interest, Miss Wehlen's beauty and charm pervading the whole.

The Breed will also present the Metro Travel series, and a very funny comedy entitled Gravy completes the bill for today and Saturday.

The sudden death of John Mercer occurred at his home on Lawton Heights Thursday morning. Death was due to Brights's disease. Patton-Park Wedding of Special Social Interest-Big Democratic Rally and Street Parade.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wil-liam Park in Stafford Springs Wednesday evening their youngest daughter, Miss Mabel Campbell Park, and Raymond Patton, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Patton, of Newtonville. Mass., were united in marriage by Rev. Levi Reese of Stafford Springs, the double ring service being used Mrs. Lincoln G. Luce, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. The best man was John Archibald Patton, brother of the groom. The bride wore white silk tulle over silver embroid-ered satin with panels of silver em-broidered taffeta. Her veil was of silk broidered taffeta. Her veil was of silk tulle with orange blossoms. She wore a diamond and platinum bar pin, the gift of the groom, and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Her sister wore pale yellow Georgette crepe embroidered with silver lace and carried as carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses.
The ushers were Angus C. Park of Stafford, Delos Gardner of Philadelphia, Alfred Klueffel and Louis Webster of Boston.
The bride's gift to the groom was a diamond and platinum scarfpin and to her sister she gave a string of pearls The groom's gifts to his best man and shers were cigarette cases.

The house was beautifully decorated with large yellow chrysanthemuma and oak leaves. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Hatch's orchestra of Hartford played the weddelphia, Washington and Atlantic City. Upon their return they will reside in Newtonville, Mass.
